3. No account is opened for a sum of less than SGD2000 or USD1000 unless the Bank specifically permits otherwise.
4. An account may be in the name of one person or in the names of two or more persons; arrangements can be made for one or more persons to operate upon the account and the balance to be paid to the survivors or survivor. The legal representative shall mean either the executor or the administrator who has obtained probate or letters of administration as the case may be.
6. Unless the Bank permits otherwise, all payments to the credit of an account with the Bank shall be accompanied by a Paying-in slip which shall be completed in accordance with instructions given by the Bank. Customers may obtain the books of Paying-in forms on application. The receipt of payment is valid only when the figures endorsed by the Bank are identical with the total amount described in the Paying-in form. Any material alteration of this receipt will invalidate it unless it bears the full signature of the relevant Bank Officer. The customer is required to see that this is done before leaving the premises of the Bank.

b) The Bank shall impose an additional retrieval fee, should the customer want the original returned cheque or any of the presented cheque back, because the bank has to retrieve the same from Warehouse meant for such clearing cheques. One copy of this rules is required to be signed and returned to Bank along with Account Opening Forms.

21. When the Bank accepts or incurs liability for or at the request of a customer, any funds or securities and other valuables deposited with the Bank belonging to the customer and in the hands of the Bank automatically become security to the Bank; and the Bank shall have the right to retain such funds or securities or any part thereof and even dishonour the customer cheques until the liability is settled.
22. Cash payment upon closure of account shall be made to account holder only.
27. Unless there is no transaction during the month, a statement of the customers' account will be rendered once a month. Customers are requested (1) to examine all entries in the statement of account; (2) to report at once to the Bank any error found therein; and (3) to return the confirmation slip if any duly signed. If the customer does not within fourteen (14) days after receipt of the statement of account object to any entry therein, the entries made in the statement of account will be deemed to have been accepted as correct. The Bank will not be responsible for any loss arising from the neglect of this precaution.
28. Although entries may have been made to the credit of the account, should such credits be made of cheques which have to be collected, the amount they represent is not available for drawing until the proceeds have been received by the Bank.
29. For audit purposes, a periodic statement of balance as on a certain day as decided by the Bank may be sent to all customers.
